SOCIETÀ ITALIANA DI SCIENZA POLITICA

SISP is a non-profit cultural association that aims to promote the development of political science in Italy, the exchange and collaboration of scholars in the discipline both in Italy and abroad as well as the coordination of institutional structures for teaching and research.

MEMBERSHIP

SISP ordinary members are more than 500. SISP membership allows to join a broad community of political scientists and social scientists. The membership benefits include: the online subscription to the Italian Political Science Review / Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica and the access to its digital archives; the rights to participate in the annual conference without registration fees and to fill the role of Section Chair at the annual conference; the opportunity to participate in the competition for the SISP prizes as well as to promote publications, call for papers, events and more through the monthly newsletter and the SISP website.

STANDING GROUPS

SISP counts 17 Standing Groups (SG). Membership is open to all SISP members, as well as to non-members subject to acceptance by the SG coordinators.

PUBLISHING

SISP publishes two disciplinary journals.

- Italian Political Science Review/Rivista Italiana di Scienza Politica (IPSR/RISP), recognized as the leading publication of the Italian political science community, embraces all approaches to political science research, with no restrictions on any particular theory, method or topic. The journal publishes three issues a year in English and employs a rigorous double-blind peer review process. Since 2015 IPSR/RISP has been published by Cambridge University Press.

- Italian Political Science (IPS) is an open-access, peer-reviewed journal dedicated to deepening the understanding of political phenomena relevant to political scientists and all those with an interest in politics. It publishes intellectually stimulating and conceptually rigorous contributions on all areas relevant to political science. All articles include a focus on contemporary Italy, either considered as a case-study or in comparative or European perspective.

PRIZES

Each year, SISP acknowledges its members' achievements and the scientific value of their work by awarding several prizes. These include the "Carlo Maria Santoro" prize for the best paper presented at the SISP conference and the "Pietro Grilli di Cortona" biennial prize for the best book published by junior SISP members.

WELCOME

Celebrating Our Legacy in Challenging Times: The Italian Political Science Association Returns to Trieste

The Italian Political Science Association returns to Trieste after 25 years. This time, we have successfully organized a major conference, one of the most attended events for the European political science community. The presence of attendees from various European countries confirms that the annual meeting of the SISP has achieved a remarkable level of internationalization.

We are hosting the conference at a prestigious university, which this year celebrates its centenary. Trieste, an extraordinary city, has always been a symbol of European culture. In a complicated and delicate moment for national, European, and international politics, the choice of Trieste holds particular significance. Indeed, the title chosen by the conference's organizing committee – Europe and Borders: Democracy, Union, and States – reflects the breadth and complexity of the issues we aim to discuss.

As always, our mission is to connect generations of scholars. Our community is largely composed of pre-doc or post-doc researchers, undergoing a long and challenging apprenticeship. We want to support them. For this reason, we issued a broad and inclusive call for papers, invested new resources to help their attendance and kept conference fees low for young scholars.

This year, we feature fourteen thematic sections with interesting panels, seven round tables, three plenary sessions, a special event in the beautiful location of Gorizia, and a pre-conference crash-course on language models for social scientists. Among other topics, we will discuss academic freedom, a theme particularly close to our hearts. This is a dedication to those who have died due to the tyranny of political dictators and regimes, but also a way to emphasize the importance of academic freedom in discussing the future relevance of political science and public engagement.

Last but not least, we come to Trieste to celebrate, with some pride, the contribution that the Italian community of political scientists has made to the country's cultural growth for over fifty years. This year also marks the hundredth anniversary of the birth of the founder of Italian Political Science: Giovanni Sartori. Of course, we will remember his legacy, but above all, we will use this anniversary to analyze our ability to apply and interpret the lessons of Sartori and the classics in a changing context.

There are many reasons to anticipate a great conference, one that we were able to organize thanks to the enthusiasm and competence of our colleagues in Trieste. We sincerely thank Giuseppe Ieraci, leader of the local organizing committee, all the academics, staff, and students who contributed to making this conference possible.

We look forward to seeing you in Trieste!
